

DLC and DRA Advisors Pay $95M for Omaha Mall as Institutional Capital Returns to Retail

$95 m

Transaction value

On May 28, 2026, a joint venture between DLC Management Corp. and DRA Advisors closed on Shadow Lake Towne Center, a 640,327-square-foot regional shopping center in Papillion...

The clean read

- and DRA Advisors closed on Shadow Lake Towne Center, a 640,327-square-foot regional...
- A Hy-Vee grocery store on the site was excluded from the sale.
- DRA Advisors, a New York-based real estate investment manager, has been a consistent buyer...

The numbers tell the story

$95 m

Transaction value

$148

Transaction value

$250

Transaction value

This is a capital stack story

Shadow Lake Towne Center is the dominant regional center in the Omaha submarket of Papillion, which has seen population growth of 12 percent since 2020, per Census data.

"The acquisition signals that institutional capital is willing to underwrite retail assets with strong occupancy, national tenants, and dominant market positions."

- In a submarket with limited new supply and growing population, that vacancy is an opportunity to...
- The deal also reflects a broader shift in capital allocation.

Who is moving the market

- On May: central to the transaction.
- DLC Management Corp.: central to the transaction.
- DRA Advisors: central to the transaction.

Where the deal can break

- The acquisition signals that institutional capital is willing to underwrite retail assets with...
- PREP Property Group, the seller, is a private real estate firm based in Omaha.
- A retail center with 89 percent occupancy and national tenants offers a spread of 300 to 350...

What lenders and investors notice

$148

Transaction value

$250

Transaction value

70,000 square feet

Key figure

The broader implication

In a submarket with limited new supply and growing population, that vacancy is an opportunity to push rents above the in-place average.

- The deal also reflects a broader shift in capital allocation.
- On May 28, 2026, a joint venture between DLC Management Corp.

That is the arithmetic of institutional retail investing in 2026.

The headline is the transaction. The story is the structure.

If the capital stack works, the deal becomes a signal. If it does not, it becomes a warning.

LIGHT TOWER GROUP

Debt & Equity Placement